IMF

IMF LOANS On 30 April 2014, after the Revolution of Dignity, in order to support the new government the International Monetary Fund approved a new stand-by loan (SBA) for Ukraine amounting USD 16.5 bn. Under this program, Ukraine received two tranches amounting USD 3.2 bn on 7 May 2014, and USD 1.3 bn on 29 August 2014. On 11 March 2015, the IMF replaces the above standby program with the new four-year program “Extended Fund Facility” (EFF). The first tranche within EFF program amounting USD 5 bn was granted to Ukraine immediately upon approval of the program on 11 March 2015. The second tranche of USD 1.7 bn was approved by the Executive Board of the IMF on 31 July 2015. The third tranche of USD 1 bn was approved on 14 September 2016. The latest tranche of USD 1 bn was approved on 3 April 2017. Both SBA and EFF required Ukraine to implement comprehensive reforms in banking, budgeting, and anti-corruption spheres. All the tranches are preconditioned with a number of requirements set up in the respective memorandums of understanding between Ukraine and the IMF.

The IMF pays special attention to fulfilment of anti-corruption conditionalities, which are crucial to receive next tranches.

IMF memorandums contain anti-corruption conditionalities, which have different status and leverage, specifically:

1. Commitment: a promise of the government to conduct a certain specific reform step.
2. Benchmark: a promise of the government to conduct a certain specific reform step with a clearly set up deadline, which is being rigidly assessed by the IMF staff prior disbursing the next tranche.
3. Prior action: a measure that a country agrees to take before the IMF’s Executive Board approves financing or completes a review. Prior actions ensure that the program has the necessary foundation to succeed, or is put back on track following deviations from agreed policies.

Often, the top-priority conditionalities undergo transition from the status of commitment towards the status of benchmark and then if not implemented to the status of a prior action.

IMF conducts regular review missions to Ukraine, within which IMF staff assesses the level of implementation of the reforms and sometimes updates commitments, benchmarks and prior actions.

An external audit of the NABU will be conducted by a panel of respected experts with international experience selected in accordance with the requirements set out in the NABU Law (#1698-VII). The terms of reference for the external audit of NABU will be developed in consultation with IMF staff and we will ensure that auditors have adequate resources to efficiently and independently complete the audit of NABU in time. Based on the analysis conducted by the auditors, the audit report will include clear and prioritized recommendations on the effectiveness of NABU and its operational and institutional independence, in line with international best practices. In case the auditors unanimously conclude that the criteria on dismissal of the NABU director referred to in Article 6.4.11 of the NABU Law are met, they will include the evidentiary basis, a detailed rationale, and recommendation in their report. In line with this framework, an audit report will be finalized by end-July 2019 and appended to the subsequent NABU report

We will operationalize the High Anti-Corruption Court (HACC) as established under Law 2018/2447, to ensure that corruption cases are adjudicated by judges with specialized skills and high integrity. The six members of the Public Council of International Experts (PCIE) have been appointed by the High Qualification Commission of Judges (HQCJ) from the nominations submitted by international organizations according to the criteria established in the Law. We will ensure that the entire process for assessing the candidates' practical skills and integrity, and their selection is transparent and consistent with the Law on the Judiciary and the Law on the HACC, including that the qualification evaluation is centered on anonymous written tests and a case study, and with publication of the methodology for assessment, the criteria used for the qualification evaluation, and the grades received by candidates for each test. The members of the PCIE and the HQCJ are provided, bound by confidentiality and sufficiently ahead of any interviews and assessments, with the same access to information on candidates. By end-April 2019, following nomination by the High Council of Justice, at least thirty-five anti-corruption judges with impeccable reputation and relevant professional skills will be appointed to the HACC in line with law 2018/2447, and with rules of procedures guaranteeing the objectivity and transparency of the process

Building upon the experience with NABU and SAP, it is critical that the selection process is seen as independent and trustworthy by the public. In line with Article 33.2 of the Law on the Judiciary, specific requirements will be introduced in the proposed legislation to ensure that applicants to the position of anticorruption judges are not only of impeccable reputation, and have high professional qualities, but also possess relevant specific skills necessary to adjudicate criminal cases related to corruption. In this regard, the legislation will set out the procedure, including tests and tasks, for the assessment of the specific professional skills of applicants, which will be based on a transparent evaluation of candidates by the High Qualification Commission of Judges with the support from respected experts with recognized ethical standards and experience in anticorruption prosecution or adjudication, including potential engagement of experts with relevant experience in other countries. This procedure should be in line with the Ukrainian Constitution and the standards of the Council of Europe. The assessment of high integrity and ethical standards shall be conducted with the participation of the Civic Integrity Council as provided by the Law on the Judiciary. In line with Article 81 of the Law on the Judiciary, this selection process will ensure that for each available position, an applicant of impeccable reputation, relevant specific skills, and high professional qualities is timely selected by the High Qualification Commission of Judges, and presented by the High Council of Justice to the President of Ukraine for appointment by mid-January 2018 (benchmark).
